School budgets repaired

PLEASANTON — Budget cuts proposed in June for the Pleasanton and Amador School Districts will be partially restored.

However, exactly what programs will be reinstated — busing, K-5 instrumental music, media center or librarian — will await a special study session next Wednesday night.

Pleasanton School District Trustees last night approved a publication budget of $7,138,590, learning earlier that the district will attend a State Department of Education meeting this morning in Burlingame to determine how SB 1641 funds will be distributed.

It was the eleventh-hour passage of SB 1641 that is now allowing school districts to loosen the fiscal belt a notch.

Amador trustees approved their publication budget of $9,497,181 and decided to hold a budget study session next Tuesday.

The Amador figure is half a million dollars more than the tentative budget figure for 1976-77.

Doug Rose, assistant superintendant for business services, said SB 1641 went from eight pages when initially approved to 71 pages following amendments and absorption of AB 2790, Montoya.

The trustees of both districts had received adjusted publication budgets just last night.

Parents fear survey

DUBLIN — Some 40 residents of the Murray School District, many from the Dublin school area, questioned trustees at length last night about the seventh-eighth grade housing survey sent out last week.

Many audience members expressed reservations about what the board would decide when they ultimately receive the results.

One parent voiced opposition to conversion of Dublin to solely a seventh-eighth grade school.

Parents were reassured that any decision would not be made before the next meeting of the citizens' advisory committee on Sept. 1 at Frederiksen School.

Skill Bank counselors Laurie Grossman and Maria Sicalbo (right) gather information that will help them place low income, unemployed persons in jobs suited to their skills. The counselors will be in Livermore on Thursday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in front of the Country Market to recruit unemployed valley residents in need of job placement.

A chance for the unemployed

LIVERMORE — Employment counselors from Skill Bank, a recruitment and job placement service, will be in Livermore Thursday to help low income, unemployed people get jobs.

Based in Hayward, Skill Bank is part of the Family Tutorial Program, a non-profit organization funded in part by Alameda County and the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act.

Under a grant from the Alameda County Employment Training Board (ACETB), counselors at Skill Bank this month are recruiting low income, unemployed valley residents. In August and September, the counselors will work hard to place those recruited in jobs suited to their skills.

Formed two years ago, Skill Bank offers client intake-outreach, job placement and counseling.

Skill Bank serves low income, skilled and non-skilled people, ranging in age from 18 to 60 years old. Many are minorities, though the program is not geared exclusively to minorities.

Skill Bank also works with youth in finding part-time and summer jobs.

The three-month program will be divided into two parts. During July Skill Bank counselors will recruit low income people out of work. Counselors ask applicants to furnish information about their job skills and work experience.

During August and September, counselors will work to place each recruit in a job that meets his or her own skills and job preferences.

Skill Bank counselors have already recruited a number of unemployed valley residents through out-reach efforts at Komandorski Village, Leahy Square, LASO Center, and even by walking door-to-door.

As they did last Thursday, this week Skill Bank counselors will set up a recruitment table outside the Country Market in Livermore, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on July 22.

Low income, unemployed persons seeking employment are encouraged to stop by to talk with the counselors.

Information on new training programs will also be available for welfare recipients seeking job training.

There is no fee for job seekers. Those wishing further information should contact Skill Bank at the Family Tutorial Program, 881-0301.

Leads piling up as search expands

Their notebooks bursting with leads, investigators begin the fourth day of their search for the kidnappers of 26 Chowchilla school children and their bus driver convinced they will have names by the end of the week.

Sheriff's deputies will continue to question Cal Rock employes for any clues about the mysterious and elaborate truck bed buried in an unused quarry pit adjoining Livermore.

Investigators said the container which imprisoned the children and bus driver Frank Ed Ray for 16 hours Friday had been buried 18 months to two years ago. A geologist at the site as workmen began extracting the monolith yesterday said it had been buried "not since the last heavy rain."

Meanwhile, Oakland police reported a man who wanted his van painted in a hurry ran when asked the license number.

Police said the man told the salesman he wanted it painted today and didn't care what color. He reportedly "spit out the name Larson" when asked for his name.

And when asked for the license number on the "drab green," 1970's van — one similar to three being sought in the massive hunt — he is said to have told the salesman: "You're getting kind of nosey, aren't you?" bolted for the van and sped away.

The salesman, whose name was not revealed, said the van had no rear license plate.

Meanwhile, an identification card, boots and pants taken from the bus driver by the kidnapers were found at the side of State Highway 9 near Saratoga.

A piece of canvas from one of two vans used in the abduction was found at the same site by two children. All the articles are being checked for fingerprints.

Sheriff's deputies said two of the vans were regestered with the department of motor vehicles in Los Gatos last Wednesday, the day before the abduction. Ficticious names and address were used, however.

Under hypnosis, bus driver Ray gave police license plate numbers 1C91414, belonging to the white van, and 1C90730 for the dark van. Both vans were equipped with two CB antennae.

The white van and license number were confirmed by a Chowchilla woman who saw the two vans loitering in the town last week.

Authorities also were told of three revenge-seeking former convicts who might be responsible for the kidnaping.

Strike agreement reached

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — The longest public employes strike in California history apparently is over.

Striking Alameda County employes will vote this afternoon on a tentative agreement born after 11 days of marathon negotiations that nearly collapsed yesterday.

If members of the striking Service Employes International Union locals 250, 535 and 616 accept the agreement, they will be back to work tomorrow morning — 50 days after the walkout began, said union negotiator Paul Varacalli. But picketing at county facilities will continue through 1:30 this afternoon.

Varacalli, who represents non-striking local 390 and was brought in as personal representative of the international's president, said the negotiations "came very close to a breakdown and escalation of the strike" early yesterday morning.

Neither Varacalli nor board of supervisors chairman Fred Cooper, who joined the union leader in a press conference, would reveal terms of the tentative agreement.

The union struck June 2 when the board rejected their demands for a 7.6 per cent pay and fringe benefits package. The county had offered about 3.7 per cent.

The union dropped its demands to about 6.8 per cent when the negotiations began. The settlement is believed to be about 5.5 to 6 per cent.

Both sides expected to announce an impasse and recess in the negotiations in their early morning meeting, but "then things started happening," said Varacalli. "We got responses from the county."

He was "reasonably confident" membership would accept the settlement, he said, noting the contract would provide "major changes" for employes.

"Both sides gave a little," said Cooper, as they "gradually got closer. It's the last quarter-inch that's the toughest."

The two sides had been stalled on wages, medical benefits and a "return to work clause" — Varacalli's preference for the usual "amnesty clause."

"Amnesty," he said, "implies we have something to be forgiven for."

"It's a good agreement because it ends the strike," Cooper said. "Both sides gave in. It's gone on too long."

Cooper won't reveal the board's full vote until this afternoon, but said he knew he had the three votes necessary to pass the pay ordinance.

'Fireman had right house all the time'

PLEASANTON — Fireman George Withers, demoted from Captain to Lieutenant for his alleged role in the Fallon House burning, had the right house all the time, his attorney told The Times yesterday.

The problem was the dual identity of the house, San Francisco Attorney Steven Stemerman said.

"The building also was known for the past 20 or 30 years as the Duarte Ranch," said Stemerman. "They were authorized to burn the southern - most house and that was the Fallon House, also known as the Duarte House."

Withers had nothing to do with procuring the house for the burning exercise of the Twin Valley Fire Training Academy, said Stemerman. That job was performed by someone in the Twin Valley group, he said. He added that Fire Marshal Ted Klenk got the air pollution control permit for the burn.

Withers was on the scene only because Pleasanton was hosting the exercise. Pleasanton had an engine company on hand as a backup to prevent a grass fire, said Stemerman.

Marie Cronin, local historican who helped arrange for moving of the Fallon House to the old historical building complex near St. Raymond's Church, told the city council shortly after the burn that she had tried to stop the burn when she happened on the scene. She had contended that she talked for a long time before firemen would listen to her and by that time the building was gone.

Stemerman claimed that Cronin came along whem when most of the building was consumed and not much time elapsed between her speech and the order from Withers to put out the fire.

Stemerman also told The Times that in February, 1975, the building department sent a memo to the fire department, requesting that two "unsafe buldings" on Foothill Road be abated. The houses were the Fallon House and the "Duarte House, just to the south of the Fallon House", said Stemerman.

"That indicates there was widespread confusion on which house was the Fallon House," said Stemerman. "Everyone understood the southern house to be the Duarte House."

The Times reported incorrectly Sunday that Klenk also was demoted for his alleged role in the burn. This is not true, according to Assistant to the City Manager Larry Miller. He refused to discuss what disciplinary action, if any, was taken at against Klenk, who was not available for comment as of press time yesterday.

Withers will have a public hearing on his demotion at 9 a.m. Thursday at the city council chambers, 30 W. Angela St. The seven person personnel board will hear the case.

The board also will meet at 9 a.m. today to hear the cases of two firemen who are protesting being passed over for pay increases.

The board membership is comprised of Chairperson Yvonne McFadden, planning department; Jim Walker and Alan Campbell, Assistant City Manager; Jim Walker, Assistant to the City Manager; Mike Gomes, maintainance person; Craig Veteran, police officer; and Bill Bonderud, fire fighter.

Alternates are Robert Caparusso, recreation director, and Jim Swan, police officer.

Muirwood residents urge traffic measures

PLEASANTON — A group of Muirwood Drive residents have reiterated their request for more traffic controls in their neighborhood in a letter to City Manager Bill Edgar.

Writing on behalf of his neighbors, including 520 petition signers, David J. Irish called attention to the importance of enforcing the speed limits, since faster speeds mean longer stopping times.

The residents asked the city council a couple of weeks ago for installation of stop signs at three locations alon Muirwood and for double yellow lines down the center of the street from Pleasant Hill Street to Las Positas Drive. They also want a 15 mile per hour speed limit in front of Muirwood Park.

In the letter to Edgar, which was also supported by Donald Wilson, Ronald Musket and Nancy Caplin, Irish took exception to comments about the existing 25 mile per hour speed limit made by City Engineer Ken Lamb.

Lamb said that the natural speed limit — the speed observed by at least 85 per cent of the drivers on a given stretch of road — is that the natural speed limit.

The residents apparently fear that Lamb favors raising the speed limit to the "natural limit" on Muirwood — 35 mph according to recent surveys. If this were done, people would drive above the new posted limit and the "natural" speed limit would rise again, putting it out of sight, the residents believe.

Lamb was asked about that by The Times recently and he said that he doubted a new natural limit would be created if the limit were reset to 35 mph. He thought motorists simply would observe that speed — period. He added that he did not necessarily advocate raising the posted limit; he merely was explaining the reality of the situation.

In his letter Irish noted that a car traveling 25 mph requires 61 feet to stop while a car traveling 35 mph takes 105 feet to stop. Irish said it seems reasonable to allow traffic a 5 mph grace range above the speed limit because of the downhill grade which contributes to cars' acceleration.

There was a death recently on Muirwood Drive and although it "was just a cat", it shows the street is dangerous, wrote Irish. Not only should engineering changes be accomplished, there should be "better enforcement of the speed limits through regular patrolling and periodic speed testing", said Irish.

Irish listed a box score of traffic tragedies along the street over the past few years. The included two children hit, one dog and one cat killed, one car driven into a house, one fire hydrant hit, and one parked car pushed 75 yards up the street and totaled.

"The official records do not show all the near misses that go on daily," said the "citizens' report" which accompanied Irish's letter. "It is only a matter of time before someone is killed." The citizens' report called for all residents to drive safely and teach children pedestrian safety.

The city council is expected to get a staff report on Muirwood Drive for its meeting July 26. Irish has requested that he receive a copy of it by July 21 so the residents can comment at the meeting.

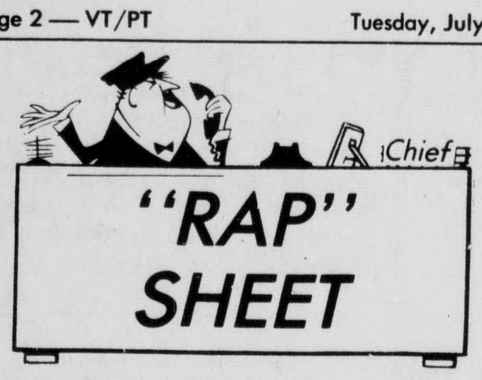
Single family home permits hit 10-year low

PLEASANTON — No single family home building permits were issued in June, the first time that has happened in June for the past 10 years.

But that doesn't mean building has slowed down in the summer, according to local building officials. It just means that sewer permits were snapped up when they were available in the spring the building sites are still being prepared and there is no need yet for the building permits.

Emil Kattan of Valley Community Services District noted that service agency sold 35 permits to Morrison Homes in May for home construction which will sewer to the VCSD plant. W.T.Grant picked up 100 building permits in January and has just begun to grade property near Santa Rita Road. VCSD sold many permits in April, said Kattan, to developers in Dublin and San Ramon, said Kattan. Shapell Industries will build 245 units in San Ramon and S&W Development will construct 20 units. Boise Cascade will build 55 units near Reservoir No. 1 and Amador Associates will build 31 units next to Dublin High School on property formerly owned by McKeon Co.

In Pleasanton one permit for commercial development was issued in June for a building at 608 Main St. valued at $84,000. Permits for 18 swimming pools worth more than $137,000 were issued and the total value of various improvements including signs and building alterations in June was $419,517 Permit fees totaled $5,189.



Burglars ransack, vandalize Murrieta apartment

LIVERMORE — After causing an undetermined amount of damage through vandalism, burglars ransacked and stole more than $2,000 in valuables from a Murrieta Boulevard apartment early Friday.

Barry Howard Baker Jr. told police he returned to the residence about noon Friday after a four - hour absence to find his apartment in a shambles. Clothes, food and other household items were strewn about the residence, and an inventory disclosed that a long list of goods had been taken.

Police reported that burglars had eaten food, drank liquor stored there, took cigars, and ransacked the unit in search of valuables. At least one person had cut his hair and left the trimmings in the sink.

Missing items include a gold ring with six diamonds and six rubies valued at $1,500, a Granada High School ring with "BHB" inscribed, remote control airplane and associated parts, an Omega brand watch inscribed with the victim's name, many clothes, a stamp collection, and other items. Police said an unloaded .22-caliber rifle had also been taken after it was loaded by the burglars.

Neighbors reported hearing noises around 9 a.m. Friday, but saw nothing. Police are continuing the investigation.

Armed man seen at girl's bedroom window

PLEASANTON — A girl preparing to retire early Saturday morning saw a man looking in her bedroom window, and ran downstairs as the man pulled a pistol from his belt and pointed it at her, police reported yesterday.

The 14-year-old girl told police she was preparing to go to bed in the bedroom of her Seminole Way home about 1:30 a.m. when she looked up and saw the bearded man staring at her. He quickly reached behind his back and pulled a pistol from his belt and pointed it at her, she told police.

As she ran downstairs to tell her brother, she saw the suspect fleeing across the front yard westbound. Police could find no signs of the suspect.

The man is described as a male latino, 5 feet 10, thin build, black hair, a bushy beard and mustache, wearing blue jeans, a dark windbreaker, and a dark watch cap.

Police have no clues in the case.

Lucky store burglarized of cardboard worth $400

LIVERMORE — Burglars stole approximately $400 worth of cardboard bales stacked on a loading dock at Lucky's Holmes Street store sometime Sunday.

Police said 10-15 bales of used cardboard, each weighing about 250 pounds, were taken from the loading dock where they awaited pick-up for eventual recycling. Store officials estimated the loss at between $300-400.

Police have no suspects in the theft.

Equipment taken from vehicles at car dealership

LIVERMORE — An estimated $275 in new car equipment was taken from two vehicles parked in the new car lot at Codiroli Ford's First Street location early Saturday.

Police said a roll bar valued at $125 was taken from a Dodge wagon, and two chrome side mufflers worth $150 were removed from a Ford van.

There are no suspects in the theft at this time.

Half side of beef taken from unlocked freezer

PLEASANTON — A half side of beef valued at $350 was taken from an Orchard Way garage recently, police reported yesterday.

James R. Bell told police that the beef was stored in an unlocked freezer in his garage. No clues were found at the scene.

Police have no suspects in the case.

Possible burglary stake-out by phone reported

PLEASANTON — Police reported yesterday that burglars might be using a phony telephone product survey to find out what valuables residents keep in their homzs before they burglarize it.

A Cottonwood Lane resident told police he received a call about 8:30 p.m. recently stating the caller was conducting a product survey. The caller then asked if he owned a color television, recreational vehicle, any cameras, radios, and other items of value.

The caller did not identify the company she represented, it was reported. Police think it may have been the work of would-be burglars seeking a house rich in valuables.

Residents are warned to first get the name and phone number of a company requesting similar information, and call police to assure the firm is legitimate before answering any questions.

Possible fireworks over tax sharing

The once controversial Congress of Valley Agencies may step back into the political cross fire by studying proposals to share tax revenues from regional shopping centers, but not if its seven - member steering committee can "desensitize" the issue.

The committee, which drew fire from Pleasanton last year when it asked for a presentation of the city's proposed Stoneridge Regional Shopping Center, was set last week to accept five "study topics" for the coming year when Livermore representative Marshall Kamena broached the idea of studying the revenue sharing concept.

"That could be a politically explosive thing," replied Pleasanton representative Frank Brandes, adding it may get "more publicity in the newspapers than some of the positive things we're doing."

But "it might take some of the politics out of where things are placed," argued Kamena. "It's a sensitive issue, but can we do the study and desensitize it?"

Livermore representatives last year agreed to present their city's airport expansion plans in return for a Pleasanton presentation of its regional shopping center plans.

Pleasanton representative Roger McLain at first agreed, but later, under instructions from the city council, withdrew the offer. Land use discussions, the city argued, are not within COVA's jurisdiction.

"I don't think the shopping center will be the plum people think it will be," Zone 7 representative Bob Pearson said last week. The responsibilities to the city weigh heavily against the additional revenues.

Property tax rates in cities with regional shopping centers — and hence sales tax revenue from hundreds of millions of dollars in sales per year — should be compared to cities without centers, he suggested. Services offered by the cities also should be weighed in, he added.

Valley assemblyman Floyd Mori is co-author of a measure that would share sales tax revenue among cities surrounding regional shopping centers.

Proponents argue that the Sun Valley Shopping Center in Concord, for example, drains sales from neighboring Pleasant Hill and Walnut Creek, thus depriving the cities' coffers of sales tax revenues.

In lieu of adding the controversial topic to their list, COVA members will ask Mori to explain the legislation as well as the arguments behind it.

The steering committee agreed on their five study topics for next year and the chairships:

- Dale Turner will head a committee to study the feasibility of consolidating valley police services.
- Brandes will study the possibility of combining fire and ambulance services.
- Pearson will look into consolidation of laboratory services.
- Bicycle and equestrian trails will be studied by VCSD's Ann Jolley.
- Kamena will head a committee considering combining planning staffs.

The steering committee will work to get input both from participating members — school districts, the East Bay Regional Park District and the Livermore Area Park and Recreation District — and from the public at large.

Committee chairman Ken Mercer of Pleasanton, absent from last week's meeting, wants the studies completed by May of next year, said Brandes.

The steering committee will meet again Aug. 12 in VCSD's Dublin headquarters.

Another look at 1976 fair losses

PLEASANTON— Comparative reports on fair admissions, concessions and parking, coupling the recent Alameda County Fair and the 1975 edition, will be reviewed by County Fair Association directors tonight.

Fair directors meet at 8 p.m. in the administrative offices on Pleasanton Avenue.

Secretary - manager Lee Hall said precise courses of action, in light of major financial losses incurred by strike - related forces, would probably come with release of the complete financial report in August.

The Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association has instituted a law suit against those union officials directly tied to the cancelled racing program at the Fairgrounds.

Horsemen lost in excess of $600,000 in purses due to the 12-day card being scrubbed.

Hall said Monday the Fair Association would do all it could to maintain the integrity of the fair program, in light of the estimated $1 million or more loss in revenues.

That would leave capital improvement projects vulnerable if the Fair Association faced belt tightening. Hall had no comment on possible law suits pending discussions with the group's legal counsel, John Cantwell.

Hall refuted the allegation the Fair Association would be in poor standing for any loan from the just - approved loan fund for state fairs and expositions.

The legislation authored by Assemblywoman Pauline Davis will take an additional one-cent from each dollar wagered at county fair meets to a $3 million a year capital outlay loan fund for fair associations

Money borrowed may be paid back in up to 15-year loans at interest rates determined by the five-year average interest the state earns on its surplus revenues.

The fund would not go into operation until next year.

Hall said the local association's financial standing is solid and "better than most." He opined "the fund would not be advantageous to us."

He noted that the Fair Association had applied for a $300,000 loan a couple years ago, had it approved and the papers sent (to fill out) but the Fair board decided to turn it down.

Attendance at the '76 Fair was down 48.8 per cent from last year and was largely attributed to the lack of horse racing and pickets at all gates throughout the Fair.

Waste disposal 'plan' meetings

This Valley's long and costly struggle with the problem of waste disposal faces two more important tests this week.

Meeting this morning in Oakland, the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board will consider amending the June, 1978 target date for implementation of a water quality management plan for this basin.

This plan would include an outfalll line that would carry treated effluent from Livermore, Pleasanton and VCSD plants to the north end of San Francisco Bay. Costs of from $20 million to $35 million have been estimated for that line, with the local contribution still uncertain.

The Regional Water Quality Board is expected today to set a new deadline of June 1, 1978 for completion of that line. (It has never been made clear just what kind of penalty will be imposed on the local sewer agencies should the outfall line to the Bay not be completed by the target date.)

In a second meeting on that same subject, the Bay Area Sewage Service Agency meets Wednesday evening in Berkeley to consider a staff recommendation that BASSA support the Amador - Livermore Valley in its plea for state financial aid.

The Valley agencies (LAVWMA) are subject to both BASSA and Bay Regional Water Board mandates and guidelines in working toward permanent answers for the discharge of treated wastes from this basin.

A third regional agency — Association of Bay Area Governments — recently went on record as recommending $900,000 federal participation in order to set aside four million gallons per day capacity in the outfall line for "industrial users."

The recommendation by ABAG "could be consistent with the agency's review of the proposed Las Positas new town" and with Livermore's quest for new industry, the ABAG release states.

City of Livermore has resisted any over - sizing of the LAVWMA line if it means fostering Harlan Gelderman's "New Town", but the city has asked for additional capacity to serve potential industries. City of Pleasanton also wants the outfall line oversized, but Valley Community Services District does not.

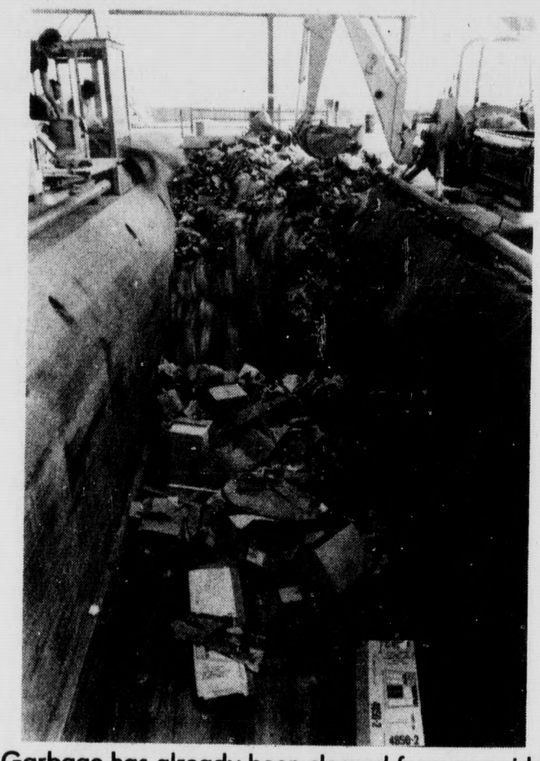
County's 'push-pit' gobbling garbage

PLEASANTON — It doesn't look like one at all. No hovering seagulls, swarms of pesky flies, rough dusty roads or overwhelming stench fouling the air. And it's very efficient.



Garbage has already been cleared from one side of the push-pit, and begins to move towards the center from the other side. It is then compacted through a tunnel at the left and into a truck for disposal.

But there it is — Pleasanton's garbage dump. Officially, the Pleasanton Garbage Service Transfer Station, where refuse is dumped, compacted and disposed of in a 90-foot long "push-pit," the only one in the county.

Built by Nelson T. Lewis Construction Co. at a cost of approximately $850,000 on 5.5 acres behind the gravel pits on Busch Road, the transfer station opened July 3 and so far has handled disposing of the city's garbage in an orderly manner. As you approach the facility, it looks more like an aircraft hanger than a garbage dump, with its steel superstructure covered by metal siding being the most modern building in the area.

A brightly - shirted employe guides each vehicle into one of 14 parking stalls, two rows of seven on each side of the push-pit. Occupants get out and unload their junk into the 15-foot deep pit, and then leave.

The mighty push-pit then takes over. Large steel blades at each end of the well are activated towards one another, pushing mounds of garbage into the middle.

Another switch is thrown, and a compactor unit in the bottom middle of the pit slowly crushes waste to its maximum density.

On the lower level, a massive truck with 75 cubic yard capacity is backed up to the compacting unit's outlet. Compacted garbage is pushed into the truck until weight at the rear axle reaches 34,000 pounds, read on a special monitor up on the top level.

When full, the truck closes its doors for a one-hour round trip to the Vasco Road dumps in Livermore. While its gone, another trailer is hooked up to the compactor, so no time is wasted from an over - accumulation of junk in the pits.

Bob Molinaro, co-owner of the Pleasanton Garbage Service with Tony Macchiano, says three full-time workers can dispose of 400 tons of garbage daily in 3½ loads. A double - shift could be added if demand increases beyond present capacity, Molinaro said.

The technology behind the disposal operation is superceded by its cleanliness — no broken bottles, rusty nails, or muddy or dusty trails. An electric sweeper cleans the grounds twice a day, and the roof protects workers on rainy days.

Molinaro and his crew salvage those items that can be recycled. A long hook is used to pick up aluminum chaise lounges, iron pipes or tin objects. Cardboard is likewise saved as fodder for a bailer that will recycle the material for further use when it begins operation in the next couple of weeks.

The transfer station is open for use by the public at a cost of $1.25 per cubic yard of refuse. Molinaro says the cost to transfer garbage is $5.25 per ton, not including depreciation on the new facility.

Entrance is made by taking Valley Avenue east from Santa Rita Road, bearing left past the railroad tracks to Busch Road. The station is on the right. No signs mark the trail, as the city has not yet put markers up.

Molinaro urges users not to take back roads through the gravel pits, since it is trespassing, raises dust and is the longpr way around.

Happy junking!

Still no size guideline for LAVWMA sewer

Alameda County Bureau

BERKELEY — Funding applications for the valley's proposed "super sewer pipeline" cleared the Association of Bay Area Governments' Executive Board last week, the last of the local hurdles before the applications face state and federal scrutiny.

But the executive board fell short of commenting on any size for the proposed pipeline, recommending only that the Livermore - Amador Valley Water Management Agency (LAVWMA) "select the most economical alternative for a long term solution to valley water quality problems."

The State Water Recources Control Board has ordered the three valley communities which treat sewage to stop pouring treated effluent into the Alameda Creek where it eventually winds up in the Fremont water supply.

LAVWMA, a joint powers agency representing Valley Community Services District and the cities of Livermore and Pleasanton, plans to build a pipeline across the valley and through the Dublin Canyon to connect with the East Bay Dischargers Authority "super sewer" line to an outfall deep in San Francisco Bay.

But LAVWMA officials, who want a pipeline limited to exporting the waste from minimum growth in the valley, are facing stiff opposition from the Alameda County Board of Supervisors.

The board wants a larger line that will allow future urban development of the valley.

ABAG's approval, while not specifying the size of the line, is for a pipeline shipping 19.12 million gallons of treated effluent per day (mgd), including some 4 mgd for industrial use.

The industrial reserve is intended for firms whose employment "might keep people in the valley," a spokesman said.

To aid residents in preventing burglary, the Amador - Livermore Valley Exchange Club has donated two electric engraving pens to the Livermore Police Department. As part of Operation Identification, citizens can borrow the pens and engrave their drivers' license numbers on valuables to aid in recovery in the event of burglary. Capt. Lee Basnar, president of the Exchange Club, and Bill Foster of State Farm Insurance in Dublin, also an Exchange Club member, are shown donating the instruments to Sgt. Don Lee, head of the department's crime prevention department, and police Chief Ronald Lindgren. Pens are available at the police station, 1050 South Livermore Ave.

Investigation continues

The information apparently came from a 28-year-old informant in Sonora who said he overheard three San Quentin inmates planning a revenge-kidnaping plot while in prison.

The story reportedly has loopholes in it, but Alameda County Sheriff Tom Houchins said "It's not that we can't find people of those names (given deputies by the informant), it's that parts of the rest of his story don't pan out." He would not elaborate.

But "So far, the source has been reliable," said sheriff's Lt. Ed Volpe.

And Jack Baugh, criminal division chief for the sheriff's office, had predicted that authorities would be able to identify at least one of the abductors by today.

Baugh said there is a "good possibility" that one of the three men pictured in photographs sent to Madera County on Sunday was involved in the mass kidnaping.

Said Bates: "We have a gut feeling that we are getting closer."

Open house at Hill 'n Dale

All parents of pre - schoolers are invited to an open house at Hill'n Dale, a parent participation pre-school, Thursday from 10 to 12 noon.

The school is located off Dougherty Road, north of Dublin K-Mart, right on Fifth Street and left on Dow.

Hill'n Dale is a nursery school in which two - and - one - half hours a day are devoted entirely to the physical, emotional, social and intellectual development of the pre-school child.

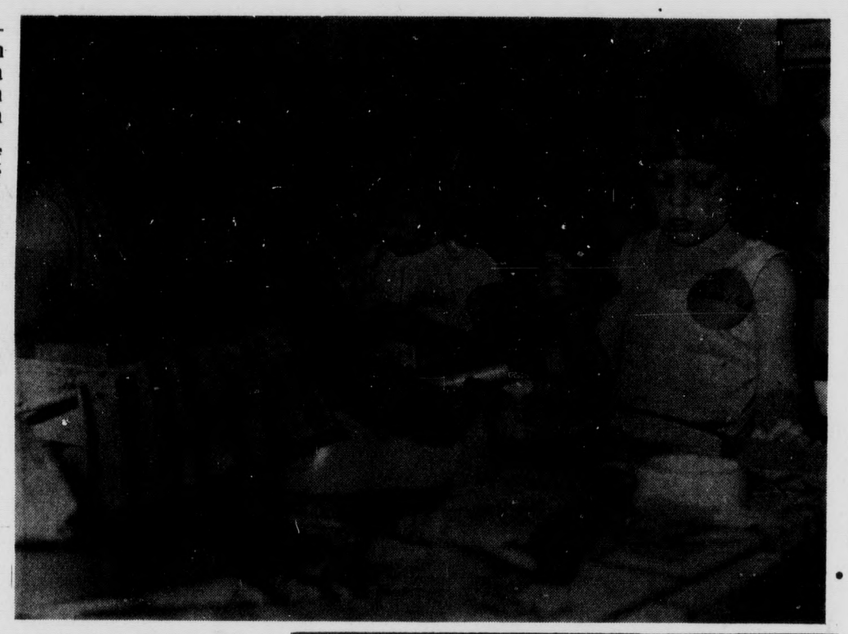
It is a place where both mother and child learn healthy ways of relating to one another and to others, in a cooperative school.

A parent participation nursery is one in which the parents assume the many responsibilities of the administration of the school.

In addition, the participating parent acts as a teaching assistant under the guidance of a paid professional director.

Field trips are planned once or twice a month and resource people visit the school from time to time.

Though basically unstructured, the school schedule offers opportunities for planned group experiences, sharing time, snack time, and story and music time.



Julie Simshauser helps Robin and Jennifer with crafts project during recent session at Hill'n Dale Pre-School. The parent participation pre-school will hold open house Thursday from 10 a.m. till noon. (Times photo)

Subscription movies come to the valley via cable

By LILLY AULT

How does the idea of watching first rate entertainment on television with no commercial interruptions appeal to you?

The expanding medium of cable television is now offering to cable subscribers in San Ramon and Dublin the service of "Showtime." Livermore and Pleasanton will be receiving this same service as soon as technical facilities are completed.

Special descriptive literature which fully explains the Showtime entertainment service will be distributed throughout the valley, area by area, as soon the service becomes available in a given location. A copy of the monthly Showtime Entertainment Guide also will be distributed.

"Showtime" will offer a monthly variety of first-run specials never shown on television. For the first time, entertainment that is unedited and without commercials in the comfort and convenience of your home!

The normal schedule of twelve feature films will include six current feature films, a recent foreign film, a special children's film, a classic Hollywood feature and three attractions which will be brought back for special return engagement. The most popular motion pictures and special attractions with the broadest audience will be shown more frequently during the month to ensure subscribers have the opportunity to view them at their convenience.

Monthly Showtime subscribers will also receive a free 16 page, full color Entertainment Guide with capsule reviews and articles to assist in choosing programs. Each attraction will be identified in the guide with the motion picture rating of R, PG, or G.

Special encore presentations for the month of July are "The Way We Were" starring Robert Redford and Barbara Streisand; "Jeremy" featuring Robby Benson and Glynnis O'Connor; and Peter Fonda, Warren Oates and Loretta Swit in "Race With The Devil."

In the next few months cable "Showtime" will be offering "Towering Inferno," "Return of the Pink Panther," "Shampoo," and "Lucky Lady."

To bring Showtime's premium attractions into your home, a representative of the business will install a small adapter to your television set which will let you enjoy programming the day the device is installed. A one-time placement fee of $19.95 for the adapter which includes installation and a monthly subscription charge of $9.95 lets the viewer enjoy the top rated entertainment in his home. This cost is in addition to the regular monthly rate of cable service.

Further information, request for service, or questions may be directed to Tele-Vue by calling 828-8510.

Protect plants during vacation

If you're going on vacation and you don't want to lose your plants while you're gone, there's a variety of plant watering systems you can easily set up in your own home or apartment, according to Dorothy Kalins of Apartment Life magazine.

If you're fortunate to have a friend to water your plants, you'll want to make it as easy as possible. Tape watering instructions on each pot and group them in the middle of the floor where it's cooler and where your plant sitter won't miss any. Make sure there's air circulation to keeps pests down, and remove the flower buds on your plants while they're under minimum care.

It you don't want to leave the watering up to a friend, you can line your bathtub with plastic, fill the bottom with a layer of soaked newspapers and place your pots directly on top. You may want to clip a lamp with a timer over the curtain bar to give your plants 10-12 hours of light daily and fill the sink with water for humidity.

"Close the door and you'll have an instant greenhouse in your bathroom," says Miss Kalins.

You can construct individual greenhouses by enclosing the plant and pot in a lightweight cleaning bag. "Water your plant before bagging it, but don't soak or spray it. Too much moisture in the closed system causes mold," she cautions.

Easier yet are pot - in - a - pot and wick methods. If you put your pot in a larger one filled with sphagnam moss and water both pots, your plant should stay moist for about 10 days.

According to Miss Kalins, you may use the wick method to keep your plants watered as a last resort. Take a large jar of water, puncture the lid with a can opener and stuff in a long cotton shoestring. Push the other end deep into the soil of a thoroughly watered plant.

"Once you're home again, carefully break your plants back into the usual home or apartment atmosphere," says Miss Kalins. (Associated Press Feature)

Flying U Rodeo Co. of Marysville produced the action - packed event, which featured many of the same events that give cowboys their rough and ready image — bull riding, calf roping, bareback riding.

Clown acts, steer un - decorating, goat tying and barrel races completed the array of events, with a special performance by the Cossack Riders of Elk Creek highlighting Saturday's contest.

Livermore Rodeo Association president Joe Serpa had originally hoped for a women's rodeo last August, but the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District, which operates the big Robertson Park, denied them use of it because they wanted to get the grounds into shape for autumn sports.

One lawsuit later, the association and LARPD established a mutually convenient schedule which allows the cattlemen use of the arena in June and July.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The American Bridge Teachers' Association quarterly always contains some interesting and instructive hands. Here is one by Dave Smith.

Forget about the bidding. North's two-spade response is a tremendous overbid and while six clubs is unbeatable, it got declarer to six notrump.

Dave used the hand to illustrate a point we have made many times in this column. The less you talk about your hand, the better.

When dummy hit the table East remarked "I should have doubled". Then East took his ace of hearts and returned the queen, which South won.

South trusted East. His normal play would have been to take the diamond finesse and go one down. Instead he cashed dummy's ace of diamonds and ran off seven clubs to wind up holding one spade and the queen-jack of diamonds while dummy held ace-king-10 of spades. East was unmercifully squeezed. He had to chuck his king of diamonds or unguard his queen-jack of spades.

Dave points out also that East could have insured defeat of the contract by playing his queen of spades at trick two, but he was too busy talking.

Ask the Jacobys

A Wisconsin reader wants to know why we lead the king from either ace-king of king-queen.

The answer is that it has been done that way since long before Oswald Jacoby started to play bridge and he has played for 65 years.

There are some disadvantages, but the great majority of experts find that it is better to continue this practice than to try something else.

Two unbeatens in Sox

Powerful North Stockton and Fairfield continued to roll while hostess Pleasanton and Hayward were eliminated from the Bobby Sox softball District 53 Minor tournament which continues through Wednesday at Pleasanton School.

Pleasanton, which dropped its opening game, 30-3, to Fairfield Saturday, fell out of the tourney after a 13-5 loss to East Stockton Sunday.

In the latter game, Sharon Walker, Suzanne Stahl and Sherri Peters were the only P-towners able to reach East Stockton hurler Tony Simpson for base hits while Walker and Kelly Myers turned in a double play. Suzi Benitez played an outstanding defensive game for the losers.

Lynn Imperial led the Stockton attack with two doubles while Rebecca Knight and Lis Castillon had two singles apiece. Imperial turned in an unassisted double play from her shortstop position.

Saturday, an RBI double by Peters and singles by Lisa Pease, Diana Roeker and Walker were the lone highlights for Pleasanton.

Fairfield pitcher Ginger Pittman struck out 10 during the five-inning game and cracked a double at bat. Jill MacManigal doubled and tripled while Cherie Beaver singled twice.

Livermore, meanwhile, remains in the tournament via a 12-0 opening game shutout of East Stockton Saturday by Charlene Grijalva.

Grijalva struck out eight and gave up just five hits. Linda Smith tripled to drive in three runs while Lynda Jansson's two singles chased home a trio of runs.

Cindy Larson and Deanna Barrett anchored the right side of the infield well.

Simpson's double and a single by Imperial were the hitting highlights for East Stockton. Simpson also stole four bases.

Sunday it was a different story however, as Fairfield pounded the valley team, 29-3.

Gina Guisto's pitching and power hitting by Beaver, Pittman and Susan Drake overcame Livermore, which used four pitchers in attempting to slow up the Solano County team's attack.

Sharon Quintoa doubled in her only at bat to drive in two runs while rightfielder Tanya Bohannon tripled to chase in a run. Quintoa and Barrett anchored the defense.

North Stockton, which opened with a no-hit win over Hayward Saturday, came back on the Sabbath for a 16-10 triumph over West San Leandro.

Although collecting just four extra-base blows, North Stockton reached beleagured San Lenadro hurler Nancy Caruso for 22 hits.

Pauline Ragonton ripped five singles while Lisa Hansen had three and a double. Melissa Wall had a trio of one-baggers to go with triples by Lis Martinez, the no-hit hurler Saturday, and Delanie Pimental, who stole home, and a double by Lana Geffler.

San Lenadro got doubles by Caruso and Karen Jaskot to go with a home run by catcher Debra Barros.

San Lorenzo played the exterminator's role in beating Hayward, 6-5.

Vicki Von Hartman and Kari Bailey shared the victorious pitching chores while Rene Atkinson drove home what proved to be the winning run with a timely single.

Claudia Moose, Teri Lum, Anita Reyes and Kelly Gagnon played well defensively for San Lorenzo.

Maxine Garica struck out 10 for Hayward while Denise Revelos and Kathy Hillis had two singles each. Andrea Ledesma singled to drive in two runs.

Chavez wins rodeo honors

Sonora cowgirl Joann Chavez pocketed $7500 and the all-around championship at the first-ever all girls rodeo at Robertson Park in Livermore over the weekend.

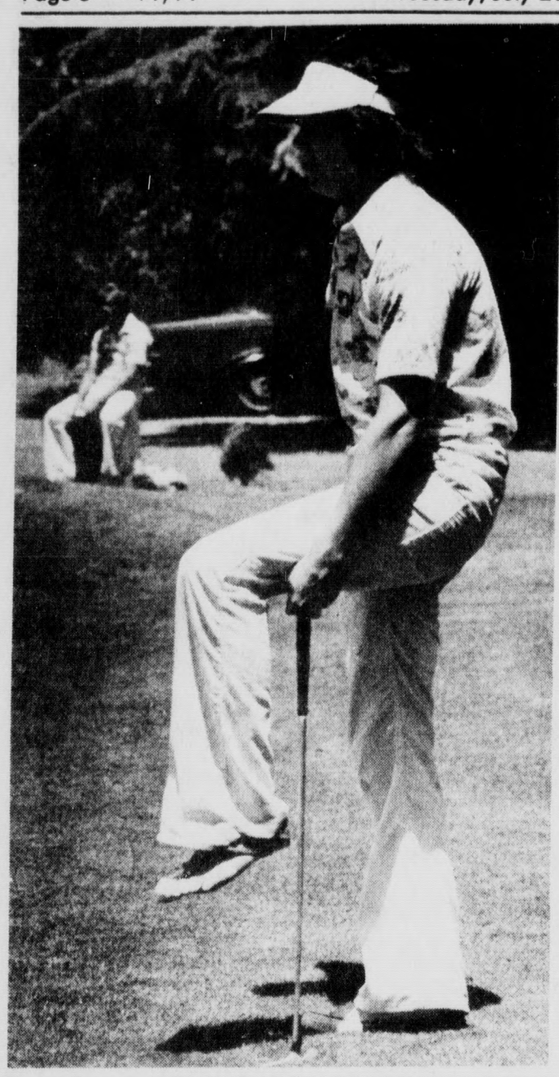
Chavez won the calf-roping event with a two-day score of 70.1 and captured second in goat tying with a two-day time total of 23.2 seconds.

She teamed up with Tarra O'Keefe to third place in team roping with a 44.4, behind the winners who clocked a 36.9.

Kay Parker also did well at the rodeo, coming up with a second in calf-roping (197.6) and tied with Leigh Semas for the steer undecorating championship with 3.9 tow-day scores.

Sue Pirtle Hays barely missed in the bareback competition with a 127 and claimed third in steer undecorating at 4.6.

Gail Tyson won the barrel race with a combined time of 35.2 while Renee Sandage and Jeanine Rendon tied for second in 35.4.



Watch for bees!

Pinole's Dave McCracken received special permission to play without one shoe after injuring his big toe. He qualified for the Northern California Golf Association Junior Championship with a 77 at Diablo Country Club.

Iron-man Cubs fall

SAN FRANCISCO — Esau Eubanks sliced a two-run double in the sixth inning here Sunday to carry Big G Groceries of Sausalito to a 4-2 win over the Tri-Valley Cubs in California Baseball Association action at Sundberg Field.

Eubanks' shot occurred with one out and men on first and second base, with the teams deadlocked at 1-1. Eubanks actually received credit for only one RBI on the play, due to a costly error by the Cubs on a rundown play.

Bob Perry initiated the rally by singling off losing hurler Steve Vaccaro with one out. Designated-hitter Randy Scott followed with another base hit, setting the stage for Eubanks' blow.

Scott tried to score from first on the ball, hit well into deep right center field. He got caught between home and third on the play, though, after deciding not to try and score.

Scott, in the rundown, dodged the tag of catcher Paul Miller, but still looked to be out with Vaccaro covering the plate. When Miller tossed the ball to the pitcher, though, Scott jarred the ball loose from Vaccaro and scored to make it 3-1 4-1.

Eubanks, meanwhile, went all the way to third on the play, and scored on a suicide squeeze by Fred Fuller on the very next pitch.

Tri-Valley opened the scoring in the second inning on a two-out single by Steve Kreckle. He stole second and scored when Big G third - baseman James Mack threw wildly at first on Steve Lloyd's grounder.

Sausalito evened up matters in the fifth, after hitless against the tough-luck Vaccaro the previous four innings.

Ron Watkins crashed a one-out double and was balked to third by Vaccaro. He scored when shortstop Lloyd booted Craig Cohen's grounder.

The Cubs scored a final run in the seventh inning, although a questionable call by the field umpire cost them a big inning.

Lloyd opened up the stanza, reaching first safely when Mack booted another ball. Dave Manousos followed with a bounding base-hit to left field. Steve Edwards then hit a grounder up the middle that the second baseman stabbed, forcing Manousos at second base.

When Edwards tried to steal second base on an optional double-steal by the Cubs he was called out by the umpire on a very close play. Lloyd remained at third, but came in later when shortstop James Riley fumbled Carl Speck's hot ground ball.

The Cubs were forced to play with just nine men, although 20 players on the roster. Coach John McCuaig feels his team responds better when nobody shows up.

"They know they have to do the job, so they do it," says McCuaig, who received yet another bum deal yesterday. It seems the Cubs were supposed to be the home team, but Sausalito took over the first - base dugout and never said a word to anybody until the game was well underway.

Clearwater's 70 tops NCGA trial

DIABLO — Keith Clearwater doesn't feel the pressure of most young golfers he knows.

And because of that fact, the free-swinging 16-year old senior from Walnut Creek's Northgate High School feels he's at least one step ahead.

Clearwater's not about to hide his fantasy of playing professional golf someday. The thought of big money, travel and playing the game every day has him longing for the opportunity.

But Clearwater, the top qualifying from the East Bay Section going into this week's Northern California Golf Association Junior Championship at Lake Merced Country Club in Daly City, says he won't feel the misfortune of others his age if golf success doesn't golf his way.

He gives three cheers to his folks.

"Most parents put too much pressure on their kids," he explained Friday afternoon after logging a one-under par 71 at Diablo Country Club to qualify for the NorCal championship tourney July 26-30 along with 15 others.

"My parents don't play golf and I like it that way," he continued. "It's a lot easier because they don't force anything upon me."

And consequently, expect a lot less.

"I can come out here," he said. "and be more relaxed. There are too many hassles when your parents are trying to guide you through. My parents don't force me. They just encourage me a lot."

Clearwater, coming off a third place tie in last week's Peluso Junior Championships at San Ramon National, carded birdies on the fifth, 17th and 18th while bogeying the second and eighth holes.

Thomas Hanson was second, four strokes behind the leader, Monte Vista High School's Carl Richrdson shot a 75 while five others turned in rounds of 77. Monte Vista grad Tom Straeter qualified with a 78, as did two others.

Clearwater, who tied for the championship of the Antioch Delta Junior Tournament earlier this summer wanted only to qualify for the NorCal tourney.

Finishing first wasn't his main focus Friday. Gaining one of the 128 positions available to the 320 young golfers from 320 qualifying sites was.

"I just wanted to qualify," Clearwater insisted. "I would have taken a 77 or whatever it would have taken. The 70 doesn't mean that much.

"I'm just glad I shot it, I needed a decent round."

No U.S. gold rush

(This is the second of two articles on the United States' prospects in the Olympic Games which began Saturday in Montreal, Canada. The writer will be attending the Games during the second week)

With the exception of Dwight Stones in the high jump, Americans are no better than co-favorites or second choices in mens and women's track and field.

And the personable Stones may have a battle on his hands from any one of several East Europeans, a couple of Canadians (who compete for schools in the US) and teammate Bill Jankunis.

The pole vault, discus and 800 meters represent other top gold prospects.

Europeans have made great strides in the vault with two Polish catapulters and one Soviet considered the chief rivals to Earl Bell from Arkansas State and Dave Roberts of the Florida Track Club. Terry Porter, another plus-18 footer, could break into the medals column.

Former Oregon athlete Mac Wilkins will battle a phalanx of East Europeans and teammates John Powell and 38-year old Jay Sylvester in the discus. The US could go 1-2 or 1-3 here.

Rick Wolhuter will try for medals in both the 800 and 1500 meters.

Joining him in the shorter race will be Cal's James Robinson, a runner with great closing speed who could challenge for a silver or bronze.

US representatives at the shorter distances will be up against favorites (and more experienced) such as Donald Quarrie of Jamaica (100, 200 meters), Valeriy Borzov (100 and 200 meters), Britain's Dave Jenkins (400) and Cuba's Alberto Juantorena (400) and Guy Drut of France (110 high hurdles).

With Steve Williams unable to make the team and Houston Mc Tear out with a hamstring tear, 19-year old Auburn frosh Harvey Glance rates as the best US medal prospect.

The 200 and 100 include two high school students (Johnny Jones of Lampasas, Texas and Dwayne Evans of Phoenix, Arizona) and junior college sparkler Millard Hampton from San Jose— whose bound for UCLA and a football career.

Drut will be challenged by Charles Foster, he of the bald pate, 33-year old Willie Davenport and super - confident James Owens of UCLA. Owens was quoted in a Sacramento paper Sunday as saying he was definetly going to win the gold at Montreal.

Other medal prospects include Frank Shorter, certainly one of the great long distance runners of modern times (in the marathon), Arnie Robinson in the long jump (but look for Larry Myricks and defending champ Randy Williams), James Butts in the triple (behind probable winner Jao Oliveira of Brazil), Fred Newhouse and Maxie Parks in the 400, Dick Buerkle in the 5,000 and Al Feurbach and George Woods in the shotput.

Kate Schmidt is the lone gold medal hopeful among the women though she'll have to outdistance Ruth Fuchs of East Germany in the javelin.

Kathy McMillan in the long jump, Madeline Manning Jackson in the 800 meters, Joni Huntley in the high jump and Brenda Morehead in the sprints have outside chances for medals.

Anderson tallies pair: Diablos, 4-1

Former Chabot College player Dave Anderson found the net twice at Emma Smith School in Livermore Saturday to lift Los Diablos to a 4-1 victory over Burlingame in Cal-Am Soccer Tournament under-21 action.

Anderson tallied on a first-half penalty kick and on a fielder during the second half.

Livermore's Tim Wade opened the scoring with a conversion of a Kevin Burke assist 10 minutes into the game. Anderson's penalty kick brought the score to 2-0 at the half.

Tom Lennon scored off a Phil Tonne assist one - third of the way through the second portion of the contest before Anderson rounded out the scoring with his second tally.

Los Diablos' record now stands at 4-1 with games scheduled this weekend at Smith against San Jose Saturday and Menlo Park Sunday.

SR bond rate decision due

SAN RAMON — There's been a slight delay in The San Ramon Unified School District's attempt to get a high rating on the $11 million worth of building bonds they are about to market.

District officials were hoping to hear by now what their rating would be, but found they had to submit one more document to be examined by Moody's and Standard & Poor's, the two big New York bond rating firms. That document, an environmental impact report, was mailed Friday.

Word is expected today or Wednesday on whether San Ramon successfully upgraded their current "A" bond rating to an "AA" or "AAA."

A bond rating is a professional opinion on how secure the bonds are — that is, how likely it will be that they will all be paid off without a hitch. Any rating in the "A" range is very secure. The Livermore Unified School District this week received an "A" rating on the $10 million in bonds they are selling.

The importance of a high rating is that it saves the district money by assuring lower - interest bids than a less secure rating. Each quarter of a percent interest costs the district $30,000 per $1 million in interest payments over the 24 - year period of the bonds, according to the district's financial consultants, Stone & Youngberg of San Francisco.

In order to plump for a good rating and to answer analysts' questions, school district business manager Dr. Orrin Batcheler flew to New York on Monday, accompanied by Robert Arrigoni, president of the Educational Facilities Corp., the citizens' group overseeing the building program.

Analysts wanted to know not only how the school district was managed but what the general position was of San Ramon Valley.

Zoning freeze possible tonight

LIVERMORE — The Planning Commission may approve an interim zoning freeze on central business district (CBD) lands to insure that undesired development does not occur before adoption of the Livermore Central Area Development Plan (CADP) and resulting changes in zoning ordinances.

The possible zoning freeze will be considered by the City Planning Commission tonight, 7:30 p.m. in the Municipal Court Chambers.

Two general areas would be affected by the freeze: periphery commerical areas which are now primarily residential, and the area between the two railroad tracks and between Murrieta Boulevard and roughly L Street zoned General Commercial.

In a memo to the Planning Commission, Director of Planning George Musso noted that state law allows a city council, by four-fifths vote, to adopt an interim emergency ordinance to be imposed during a period when a city is actively studying an area.

Imposition of the interim freeze, Musso said, would give the city control over the development of the area until the CBD is adopted.

The freeze would prohibit the conversion of residential property within the CBD to commercial use until such time as the CADP and zoning are reviewed.

Musso explained that the interim ordinance would give the city the opportunity to deny a zoning change on the basis that it may soon change the zoning ordinance.

For the land between the railroad tracks and between Murrieta and L Street, the general commerical zoning not only permits "the desired retail and other uses," Musso noted, but also allows contractor yards, plumbing, heating, sheet metal and similar shops, and building material yards.

Musso said the probability of such uses locating within that area is small, but he cautioned that some of these uses "could locate on the periphery of the prime retail area to its detriment."

The effect of the partial zoning freeze would be to allow only those uses in the general commerical zone that are permitted in the central business zone.

It is not the intent of the freeze, Musso said, to hinder in any way the plans of major property owners to develop retail and other facilities within this area.

Musso said state law permits the interim ordinance to stand for two years. But he said it is unlikely the adoption of the CADP and attendant zoning changes would take that long. If the CADP is approved within three months, he estimated the required zoning changes could be accomplished within a short time after that.

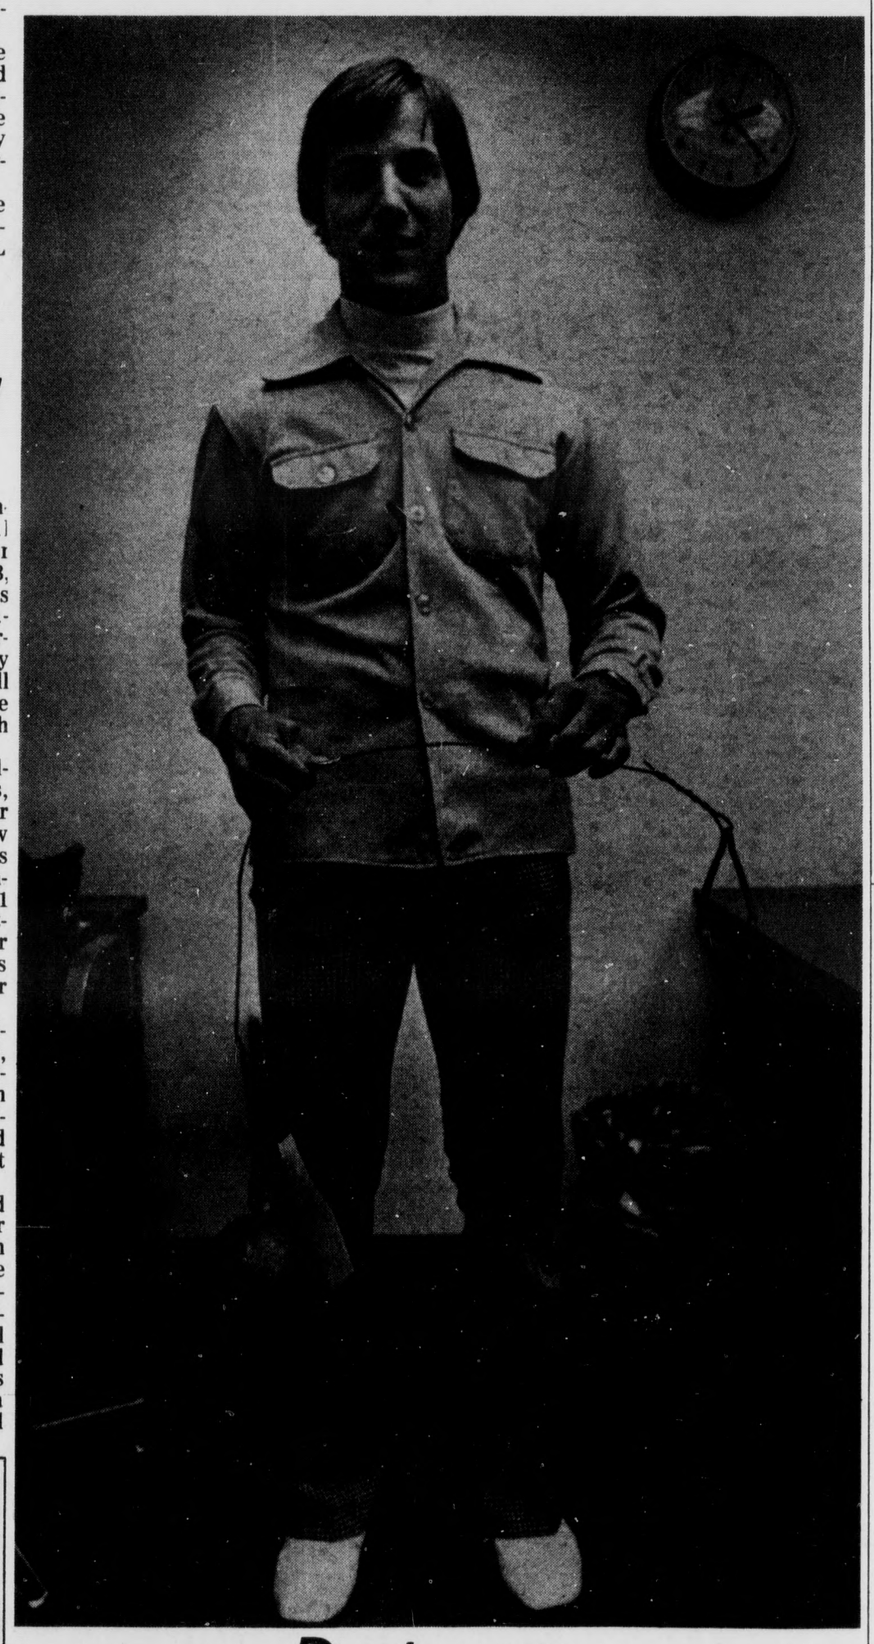
Ellington orchestra to open

The eighth annual Concord Summer Festival opens another spectacular series on Friday, July 23, with the combined talents of the internationally famous Duke Ellington Orchestra conducted by Mercer Ellington in an all Ellington program and the Milt Jackson Quartet with Bill Evans.

Featuring six individually - programmed concerts, the Festival will be held for the second year at the new Concord Pavilion. Dates for the remaining five concerts are July 24, 25, 30, 31 and Aug. 1. Friday and Saturday programs are set for 8 p.m. with Sunday shows beginning one hour earlier at 7.

Under the inspired leadership of Mercer Ellington, the Duke Ellington Orchestra continues to maintain the musical tradition established by the renowned bandleader during the past five decades.

Composer, arranger and trumpet player, Mercer has been associated with father's orchestra since he was eight-years-old. During his musical career Mercer has formed several bands of his own, played with the Cootie Williams 1954 Band, and formed a record company and label that bears his name.



Destroyer

Livermore policeman Rod Brisendine holds a 16-pound lead ball that a 14-year-old boy had used to wreak $2,500 damage to a girl's bathroom at Rancho Las Positas School on Tanager Way Wednesday. The youth went into the bathroom swinging, hitting walls 11 times in the attack. An anonymous tip began Brisendine on the trail of the vandal, and a day-long investigation lead to an arrest. The youth has been booked on suspicion of felony malicious mischief.
